

its bad enough the FCC is cracking down on regular radio and its bad enough that coporations have bought up local and national radio, why do you feel its neccessary to mess with sat. radio.. its an excellent sorce of information constant and clear, unlike a lot of the channels on regular stations. even the traffic stations take 20 min to get to the traffic and the other am station that are just traffic conditions are read even worse then the xm computer.. so if u have a problem why not make the product thats freely avalible to all better. why knock us or the xm radio and its users from getting this sorce of info, cosidering we pay for it.
